A Vicious Trick.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 26, '83. Editors Herald:

On Monday evening late, some persons came in my garden, broke down limbs from my cherry trees, and took all the fruit, they also took flowers and stamped on other valuable plants, and again on Tuesday evening, very late, they were requested from the windows twice to leave the grounds with their lady companions, after having pulled up by the roots, about a dozen of flowering pinks. The late-ness of the hour did not entitle the passers by to the privilege of helping themselves, but if solicitation had been made in the day time, they would not have been refused. It is really hoped there will be no repetition of the occurrence.
Yours Respectfully,

SALT LAKE VISITED BY A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

THE MOST DESTRUCTIVE IN ITS HISTORY.

The Loss is Roughly Estimated at over $100,000.

With Not Over $25,000 Insurance.

An Explosion which Shakes Up Part of the Town.

Breaks Windows and Injures People.

About 11:45 last evening the fire alarm pealed forth its dreadful warning to our citizens that the fire fiend was again engaged in his destructive work. Of course, everybody was at once on the alert, looking for the locality of the flames, and they did not have to look long. Starting up from the Council House corner, opposite the Temple Block, the LURID TONGUES OF FIRE were reaching so far toward the sky that their vicinity, if not the actual place, was easily determined, and a general movement was made in that direction. The flames had attained a firm headway when an explosion took place the buildings which were near of course sustaining a severe shock. To make the calamity the more severe,

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT were enjoying a holiday at Black Rock and had not returned, but a few, if any members of the brigade being left in the city; but nevertheless the engine, carriages, etc., were soon taken out, got into condition and headed for the scene of destruction, which proved to be, as stated above, at the Council House corner, that building, Clawson's machinery and hide and wool depot, and Savage's Art Bazar being

ENVELOPED IN FLAMES, which were spreading at a rapid rate. An excited and continually swelling throng filled the streets, making progress toward the fire a very difficult matter. The work of combating the destroying element at once began, but it seemed like trifling with a great necessity, so voluminous was the power of destruction and so comparatively inefficient the means brought to bear against it; still, the machinery worked to the utmost possible advantage and was well manned and directed throughout. Steady

STREAMS OF WATER were poured upon the flames from different directions, but the work of demolition went steadily on and apparently unimpeded, the hungry demon seeming to feed upon the element employed to extinguish them. For a while it was impossible to ascertain anything in the nature of particulars, so excited was the surging, seething crowd, all completely engaged in the desperate fascination of witnessing

THE MOST DESTRUCTIVE FIRE that ever occurred in Salt Lake. Soon it was discovered that flames were issuing from the roof of the large Tabernacle, from the Globe Bakery and other smaller buildings in the vicinity, but by prompt and efficient action the threatened spread was averted, a number of men, equipped with ladders and hose, went at once to the Tabernacle and by diligent efforts

EXTINGUISHED THE FLAMES there before they had made great headway, though a few moments' delay would have made labor futile and this fine edifice would have been in ashes. As soon as the scattering fires had been overcome, all attention was turned to and all efforts concentrated upon the great conflagration, which had never for a moment been neglected, but which went steadily on to the end, despite renewed vigor and continuous accessions of men and means.

The explosion previously referred to seems to have been caused by the ignition of a quantity of Giant powder in General Clawson's establishment. So violent was the shock that nearly every window and glass door in Main street, a block down on either side was completely destroyed, the sidewalks being literally

CARPETED WITH GLASS.

A great number of injuries, more or less severe to spectators and others, resulted from this cause. Several men were in the Art Bazar at the time, engaged in removing valuables, and another crowd were in the rear fighting the flames; these nearly all suffered more or less, some being badly cut by the flying fragments, and others blown several rods by the concussion. An interesting incident in this connection is the fact that a safe key was blown a distance of a block and a-half and picked up red-hot in the yard back of Teasdel's store, on Main street. None of the injuries, so far as we are able to learn at the present writing, are fatal, though several are serious. There was shortly after this occurrence, that two men had been killed, but the rumor happily proved to be unfounded.

The origin and cause of the fire are at this time completely involved in mystery. Nothing but conjectures prevail, some going so far as to announce their belief that it was the work of an incendiary, basing this opinion largely upon the fact that the Fire Brigade were out of town. This of itself is hardly sufficient premises upon which to construct so horrible a hypothesis; the exact cause may not be known for several days, if ever. One thing is certain—the ruin, within its limits, is complete.

LOSSES.

It was evident when the fire started that Gen. Clawson's place of business, the Council House, Savage's Art Bazar, the Excelsior Bakery, Sorenson & Carlquist's furniture store, Elias Morris', and other places down to the Globe Bakery, would be lost in the great blaze, and the result proved that this anticipation was practically realized. The only thing saved at General Clawson's place was the stock of wool on hand, and a few wagons which had been saved by those who arrived at the place in time to get some things out before the heat became so intolerable that it could no longer be borne. Inside of ten minutes after the first persons were on the street, every particle of the Clawson's property was enveloped in flames which rendered it absolutely impossible to hope even to save anything; and the result was that the whole structure and contents were irretrievably lost. Mr. Clawson roughly and approximately estimated his loss at $30,000; the insurance being guessed at $20,000.

THE COUNCIL HOUSE

was the next structure which was attacked with vigor by the flames. The doors were burst open when it was impossible to save anything further belonging to Mr. Clawson, and a great many things in the Exponent office, which is next to Mr. Clawson's place, were saved, but not all; there were two organs, a drum, a number of chairs and several clocks and other articles including records, saved out of the remaining part of this old structure, the walls of which are still standing, it being gutted of everything else, long before the Council House was seriously effected.

SAVAGE'S ART BAZAR

Had been attacked, and the conclusion was inevitable that the structure could not be saved. By this time, there were several streams of water at different places on the fire, but there was no hope of saving the building, and a great many persons burst into the Bazar and in a lively manner carried the goods out on to the street, and placed some in the lot owned by General Wells, north of the Co-op. The loss to the Bazar is about $10,000, independent of the building itself. The insurance on the contents is about $4,000. Besides this Mr. Morris' place was burned down, the furniture store and a portion of Mr. Parry's place was put down, but the total loss or the amount of insurance is unknown.

EXPLOSION.

After all hope of saving anything further in Mr. Clawson's place had been given up, and when it was completely enveloped in flames, and the Council House was also in flames, it was ascertained that there was a limited quantity of Giant powder stored in a fireproof wagon in Mr. Clawson's premises, and for that reason everyone kept shy. Finally, when the whole structure was one mass of flames, the explosion which had been anticipated took place. The report was quite heavy, being heard a long distance off, and breaking all the plate glass in stores for a distance of two blocks; and it is roughly estimated that the loss on the fire and destruction to glass will not be less than $100,000. The fire is without doubt the heaviest the city has ever known, and no reason can be given for the conflagration unless it was an incendiary. During the excitement attending the blaze, the numerous throng that assembled, and all the circumstances that contributed to make it an occurrence of the wildest excitement, anything like a fair estimate of the loss, or a more explicit account of the disaster is impossible.

ITEMS.

A large number of persons, who had assembled at the scene of the conflagration before the explosion, were thrown with violence, and more or less bruised.

Several unprincipled individuals were detected in the act of attempting to pilage, and storekeepers and watchmen were stationed in all quarters to protect their property from theft. A mob which made a rush for the Z. C. M. I. was stood off and a guard was promptly organized.

"Tom" Dozier, who was working hard to rescue goods from the Art Bazar, was considerably cut up and was receiving the attentions of Dr. Benedict at an early hour this morning.

Among those who were promptly on the ground were the members of Walker Brothers' fire company, who under the direction of James Hague, did good service with their apparatus, working hard and continuously to save.

The throng which lined the street on the east side was quickly dispersed by the crash of store fronts and glass, many receiving cuts and gashes.

An hour after the calamity, we noticed employees of Z. C. M. I. outside measuring for glass for the front windows.

The credit for giving the alarm is claimed by the HERALD, whose employees saw the first glaze of the fire and raised the cry of "Fire!" when the telephone was used to communicate with the fire department.

FOR CONTEMPT.

Jeter Clinton Sent to the Penitentiary.

Some time since Melissa D. Clinton began a divorce suit against Fielding J. Clinton. The defendant made no reply to the complaint, and the court granted the divorce, with alimony at $25 a month, and costs, etc. The amount was not paid, and some five days ago Clinton was called before the court to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt. He made a statement of his affairs, and the court gave him five days in which to pay over the $145 called for—notwithstanding the asseveration of Clinton that he could not possibly pay it—or he would be committed to jail. He failed to make the payment, the five days terminating on Wednesday, the following order was issued by Judge Hunter:

In the District Court for the Third Judicial District of Utah Territory.—Melissa D. Clinton vs. Fielding J. Clinton.

The people of the United States in the Territory of Utah, to the United States Marshal for Utah Territory send greeting: Whereas, On the 15th day of June, 1883, the above named Court made an order in the above entitled case, in the words and figures following, to wit: "On this day the defendant, Fielding Jeter Clinton, is brought before the court upon the warrant of attachment issued yesterday, as for contempt and having made answer to the alleged contempt, the Court orders that the said defendant pay into Court, to the clerk thereof, on or before 10 o'clock a.m., Wednesday, June 20, 1883, the sum of $145, as required by said order of May 24th, ult., and that in default of such payment said defendant be committed to the custody of the United States Marshal until he make payment of such money."

And the defendant, Fielding Jeter Clinton, having failed to comply with the requirements of said order of Court above referred to, and failed to pay into Court, to the clerk thereof, said sum of $145, or any sum of money, and having failed to purge himself of the contempt, and the time for the payment of said sum of money and for compliance with said order of Court having now expired, you, the U. S. Marshal for Utah Territory, are hereby commanded and required to forthwith attach the body of the said Clinton and keep him in your custody until he make payment of said sum of $145, as required by said order.

Witness, the Honorable John A. Hunter, Judge of the Third Judicial District Court, and the seal of this Court, this 20th day of June, A. D. 1883, at 10:30 o'clock a.m.

A. J. AVERILL, Clerk.

Jeter Clinton was, therefore, arrested on Wednesday, and taken to the Penitentiary, where he is confined. He desired to be taken to the county jail, but Marshal Ireland directed that he be taken to the Penitentiary and it was accordingly done.

The Wyndham Comedy Company.

The excellent comedy company is under engagement to appear at the Salt Lake Theatre, commencing on Tuesday 26th inst. Charles Wyndham is a high comedy artist of the first rank and is supported by a company of ladies and gentlemen, each one of whom is a clever star. Among the pieces which go to make up the repertoire are "Brighton," "Fourteen Days," and "The Great Divorce Case," all three of them lively, sparkling comedies. The first-named is an anglicized version of "Saratoga," is produced with sets and scenery appropriate and beautiful, played with vim and snap, and is certain to give satisfaction to lovers of high class comedy. "Fourteen Days" is a most charming comedy and wherever produced by the Wyndham Comedy Company has been a pronounced success. "The Great Divorce Case" has just closed a lengthy run at the Baldwin Theatre, San Francisco, where full houses have been the rule during the presentation. Patrons of the theatre have a treat in store in the performances of the above company beginning next Tuesday.

A Resignation.

Chicago, 20.—Rev. Arthur Ritchie, rector of the Church of the Ascension, whose extreme ritualism has caused quite a scandal, in Episcopal circles, resigned the pastorate to-night. He said the reasons were his strained relations with the bishop of the diocese, and the fact that under these circumstances his parishioners declined to assume a debt of $20,000 for the erection of a new church. A committee was appointed to confer with him.

Dry Canyon Springs.

The other day I took a ride on horseback up Dry Canyon, to see what progress is being made to procure drinking water for those thirsty North-benchers. Considerable work has already been done in clearing a road through the brush and rocks wide enough for a wagon, and I found several loads of lumber dumped down at intervals for fluming purposes. From previous notes on this subject in the papers I had concluded that the springs were only a short distance up the canyon but was greatly surprised in following the wagon track as it wound around and around between the magnificent hills, to be taken fully three miles up. But I was by no means sorry for the ride, as the scenery is truly grand. This canyon which hitherto was a perfect terra incognita to me, is now accessible for the public, and will no doubt be used by great numbers who have a taste for our mountain scenery, for enormous hills covered with grass and bushes are towering in grand succession on either side of the narrow road, which—though not very smooth—is by no means dangerous for a buggy or spring wagon. Here and there you find evidences of the irrepressible miner in his hunt for the precious, but these same evidences stand also as monuments over sore disappointments and vain efforts. There are several side gulches through which small streams of water are trickling down but the largest spring is away up a steep hill, from which a small flume is the slope of a V is laid. This is the beginning of the new water-works for the benefit of the North bench. Smaller flumes will be laid from smaller springs in the side gulches, and finally the augmented stream will be led to the beach in iron pipes I believe, and I have no doubt but what sufficient water can thus be saved for culinary purposes, but not for irrigation. Our city fathers deserve thanks for the good work commenced.

Baptist Church in Salt Lake.

For about eight months a little company of Baptists has been holding services in a hall just west of Walker's Opera House. Early last winter Rev. Wright Spencer, who inaugurated the enterprise, went east to raise funds for a church edifice, and the interest was left in charge of Dr. G. Byron Morse. Mr. Spencer returned a few days ago, having secured the $10,000 needed, and is now ready to commence work upon the new building. We have examined the plans of the proposed structure, and to say that our Baptist friends are to have one of the neatest and most attractive houses of worship in the city, would not be an over statement. The new building is to have a front of forty-seven feet, and a depth of seventy-five feet, with a tower and spire upon one corner, and will seat 350. The style of architecture is Romanesque with a Queen Anne finish, and the building when completed will be an ornament to our growing city. Mr. Spencer wishes to lay out the entire amount raised in the east upon the building, and hopes that the people of Salt Lake City will help him to buy the lots. As all classes without distinction are interested in whatever promotes the prosperity of the city, the request does not seem unreasonable. We hope therefore that in his effort to raise the sum needed for this purpose, he will meet with the hearty response which the worthy enterprise he has undertaken demands.

The Wing Shooters.

The regular bi-monthly medal shooting match of the Deseret Club took place at Pitts' Gardens, on the State Road, yesterday. The best of order prevailed throughout and general hilarity ruled. The shooting was witnessed by a large number of invited visitors, among whom were many ladies. The gold medal was won by Harry Margetts, the silver medal by Mr. Merrill, the third prize went to J. Pierson and the fourth to W. Wingear. The scores were good throughout, and the birds unusually lively till after the match, when they were quiet afterwards. Altogether the boys pronounce their day's sport the most enjoyable of any they have yet had, the participants as well as the ladies and gentlemen in attendance having a really fine time, unmarred by accidents of any kind.
